Abstract

This study tries to use mechanisms of the text to study the verses of related to the story of Jesus-peace be upon him-in Quran. The study consists of an introduction, a preface, five chapters and a conclusion. The introduction includes demonstration of the topic, the reasons for selecting it, the method of tackling it and the difficulties of studying it.

The first chapter entitled, "The Structural Construction of the Text" , is about the story texts in Quran. These texts were arranged, divided and the sentences were ordered.

The second chapter is about "reference" and its role in the text coherence of the story .This chapter consists of four sections. The first one deals with the reference issues. Then, the other four ones are about the structure of reference in one text of the story texts.

The third chapter is about "ellipsis" in the story verses and its effect on the text coherence. This chapter consists of five sections. The first section is about the ellipsis issues. The second section is about the noun ellipsis, the third section is about the verb ellipsis, the fourth section is about the particles' ellipsis and the last one is about the ellipsis of sentences and scenes.
