

The Rhetorical analysis and the Narrative Action

This study deals with the question: how can rhetoric helps narration studies?. It supposes that we can discover a new conception of rhetoric, and, at the same time, suggests a new way to explain the narrative action. So, the study has three axes: the first discusses, generally, the relationship between rhetoric and narration theory. The second focus on how to analyze the narrative action throughout the storyteller text from the point of view of rhetoric research. The third takes care of the same task but in beneath the poetical text. The study, so, is a theoretical and applicable research. It assured that we can construct a new method of rhetoric able to achieve contemporary goals, and to share, as a result, the new trends of scientific studies.
