

The Egyptian University Libraries Consortium: An Overview and Future Perspectives

This paper has been structured according to the book purpose which provides an overview and future prospective of academic libraries in different places in the world. The paper has discussed the Egyptian University Libraries Consortium (EULC) in terms of its history, community context, and current activities. The paper has discussed library consortium structure and compares the current situation the EUCL with the worldwide trends. The strategic plan of the consortium including the vision, mission, objective and future prospective has been presented. The paper has also discussed the different membership modules of library consortium in the world and has stated the current situation of the EULC membership beside the consortium coordination body capacity including budget and finance, human resources, activities, and service provided to the community.