

Academic Accreditation in Higher Education Institutions: An Empirical Study on the characteristics of the libraries in the adoption of Fayoum University

Lies the importance of the study to identify the extent of the application libraries contained properties within the academic accreditation for Masssat Higher Education University of Fayoum standards as the university library does not operate in isolation from the vision and goals of the university to which they belong, to contribute to the process of the study by doing a field study in an important sector in Gaza services provided by Fayoum University, a university libraries sector. Growing interest from Fayoum University management in the application of academic accreditation in all sectors of the standards, facilities, and programs of the university, hence this study will provide new search provides appropriate information for use in the development of comprehensive quality programs at the university.

The goal of the study:

You can summarize the objectives of this study in the points as follows:

- 1 - Identify the standard libraries to assess the standard of academic accreditation of institutions of higher education
- 2 - to identify the needs and potential of Fayoum University libraries to achieve the required standards
3. assess the application libraries contained accreditation of institutions of higher education standards standards in Fayoum University