

The Political and religious Role of the foreign wives and its effect in Samaria
Jezebel as Example

Journal of History and Future, Vol 63, 2018, pp. 88-123.

The Marriage between some families in Samaria and the neighboring cities isn't a new idea, we have David and Solomon them was associated with peace political marriages with neighboring kingdoms such as the Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites and Sidonians, and despite the fact that David and Solomon peace be upon them from the prophets who Jews believe they are their ancestors and is proud of belonging to them , But they insulted and insulted them, and accused them of worshiping gods other than God as a result of their association with foreign marriages. The research deals with the study of One of the most important female who have had an influential role in Samaria, she is the Queen "Jezebel" the daughter of the king of Tyra, and research began to discuss the causes of convergence between the Kingdom of Samaria and Tyra, and the culmination of this convergence of the marriage of King Ahab of Jezebel, which took control firmly on the King Ahab and impose her Phoenician gods as Baal in Samaria, an official religion, and challenged the Israel and the prophets, as prophet Elijah, the then the study discusses attack of Yahoo on Samaria and killing of all the sons of Ahab and then killed her. The research also discusses the idea that women's control of the Near East is not new and striking examples of Jezebel power and control, such as Mal-Neggal, Pudkhiba in Khati, and Esther's "Judaism" in the Persian Empire.
