

Abstract in Arabic

This research sheds light on the ethics of health care at David Seed House a philosophical invasion of the field of health that has been largely ignored by philosophers throughout the ages.

The most important results of the research:

=The ethics of health care are theoretical and practical, the theory is the constitutive theory of health, and practical because it is based on relations and the exercise of virtue and moral values of justice, mercy, humility and wisdom, namely ethics of decision, work ethics, communicative ethics, where the ethical duties are emphasized on the doctor and nurse towards Elderly patients.

=The health care ethics includes both the ethics of medicine and nursing, and all the health workers who work in the field of medicine , It can be called and unified in the ethics of health work .

=The need for health care to be ethical by helping health care professionals, decision-makers and health policies to use ethical, creative and critical thinking with the help of the ethical Gride that motivates them to uphold ethical values during practice, to abandon utilitarian values and hold on ethics of duty and virtue .

=Emphasize the central role of philosophy in solving the ethical dilemmas that arise during the daily practice of health care providers, which show, for example, that there is a strong relationship between physical health and mental health.